Charlie Company 137th Infantry Regiment, 35th Infantry Division Memorial, City Park, Council Grove, KS

For as long as I can remember, it's been known as "Historic Council Grove". Stories of the Santa Fe Trail, The Hays House, The Kaw Mission, The Settlers Store. All of these are prominent reminders of the early days of our town. However, for Veterans and those in the military, they're simply not as important as the opportunities to teach time honored traditions and the legacy of our past, to include military monuments. Our monuments afford us the ability to teach those that may not be aware the importance of Unit History, or Legacy, Lineage and Honors.

How we got to this moment of moving a monument isn't really important. What is important is what we do from this point forward to educate on the Legacy, Lineage and Honors of a unit that pre-dates Council Grove itself through its own history IS what's most important to Frederick

Phillips, American Legion Post 121.

Additionally, it's important to point out that Council Grove is also historically affiliated with more than just the 137th Infantry Regiment. In fact, Council Grove is associated with the 35th Division, also known as the Santa Fe Division, and Fort Riley, for their early role in protecting the Santa Fe Trail, 4 Regiments, 2 Active, the 108th Aviation Regiment and 635th Armored Regiment, and 2 In-Active, the 127th Field Artillery Regiment and the 137th Infantry Regiment as well as 2 Battalions, both still active, in the form of the 169th Combined Support Battalion and the 891st Engineer Battalion. Each of the units I just spoke of have historical ties to Council Grove through its history of reorganizing units.

However, we can talk about those units at a later time as tonight we would like to discuss the 137th Infantry Monument located at the City Park. While it's a World War II Memorial, it's a testament to the 35th Infantry Division as well as the current 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley, in its early days. Typically, monuments are made with significance to the unit it represents. In the case of the Company "C" 137th Infantry Regiment, it's no different. The cement circular base, with bricks encased represent the 35th Infantry Divisions patch. The concrete "patch" is 18 feet across representing the 137th Infantry Regiments Reorganization in 1918. The base of the monument is 69 inches wide representing its affiliation to the 69th Infantry Brigade. As you walk toward the monument it says that the 35th Division, 69th Infantry Brigade, 137th Infantry Regiment is the hierarchy for the unit.

On its Lineage and Honors, you will note the 137th Infantry Regiment wasn't actually federally organized until 17 May 1879 from existing companies in the Kansas Volunteer Militia as the 1st Infantry Regiment at Fort Riley, Kansas. One of those existing Companies was E Troop, 114th Cavalry. A combined Cavalry Troop from Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota that performed as many as 17 patrols along the Santa Fe Trail coming from Fort Riley, Kansas from 1852 – 1854, prior to the incorporation of Council Grove by the legislature in 1858.

In essence, E Troop of the 114th Cavalry is widely known as "The Godfather" of the Kansas

Army National Guard as each unit can trace its history to this Cavalry Troop. Therefore, we contend that Council Grove, by virtue of E Troops early presence, holds a significant historical piece of the Kansas Army National Guard and this monument deserves to have its unit history placed alongside it for all to see and enjoy, at its current location, to remain forever.
